at Unofficial County
Convention

At a streamlined and very brief unofficial Democratic county convention held Monday evening at the court house Christopher Morris of Kingston was recommended as the Democratic candidate for member of assembly from this district and Raymond A. McAndrew, former city clerk, was named as the party's choice for county clerk. The balance of the ticket will be completed on July 10 at 8 o'clock to which time the convention recessed.

Thomas J. Plunkett, county chairman, presided and because of the extreme hot weather the business of the convention was held to a minimum. William A. Kelly, secretary, and James H. Betts, treasurer, were also present.

Following the singing of the national anthem the convention immediately got down to business. Mr. Morris was nominated by former Mayor William Edinburg and Abe Rollick of Newburgh. Patrick J. Murphy of Kingston and Thomas Shay of Highland seconded the nomination. Mr. Morris, who was present, accepted.

On the call for nominations for county clerk, Leo W. Clare placed the name of Raymond A. McAndrew before the convention. Mr. Clare said it was a great pleasure to nominate a man for county clerk "who is well qualified for the position, with an unquestionable character; a most genial disposition; as well liked and known as any one we could nominate for this position."

"His experience as city clerk under Bill Edinburg administration has qualified him for the office of county clerk, and I am sure that we all feel if he fills the position half as well as he did the city clerk's, it will be well taken care of. He is a man who will at any time of the day or night gladly do whatever he is called upon for by the taxpayers of the city of Kingston and the county of Ulster. I wish to state I sincerely believe that with an organized effort, this man will be elected on November 2, even in Ulster county, for county clerk. I hereby nominate for this position Raymond A. McAndrew, 304 East Union Street, Kingston," concluded Mr. Clare.

The nomination was seconded by Lawrence Quilty and Francis O'Neill of Kingston.

In accepting the nomination Mr. McAndrew said:

"I deeply appreciate the honor which you have bestowed upon me tonight, and I humbly accept the nomination for clerk of the county of Ulster. I am fully aware of the responsibilities involved in administering the affairs of this most important office. As most of you know, I was city clerk for some time and feel that I have a good working knowledge of the affairs of our city and county. I pledge to the people of the city of Kingston and the county of Ulster that when elected county clerk of this county, I shall administer its affairs in a sound and businesslike manner. Everyone will receive sincere consideration from me. I enter this campaign with courage and confidence. I shall respect every man and fear none. To fulfill the opportunity which you have given me, I earnestly solicit your support and that of your friends. I ask Almighty God to guide you and me in our endeavors."

Following the two nominations the meeting adjourned until 8 o'clock on July 10 at the court house where there will be recommendations for senator from this district, delegates to the judicial convention and a candidate for coroner will be made.

American Rebuttal

Charge by SyriaPremier Is Told to Stop
Stepping Out of Line or Expect Replacement

London, June 29 (AP)—American diplomatic sources in Rome said today Russia may be building up a case to send troops to Yugoslavia.

The Kremlin-ruled Cominform denounced the Communist rulers of the Balkan country yesterday. Premier Marshal Tito, his whereabouts still a mystery, was castigated by name and told in effect either to adhere to the party line or be replaced. Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, said it expected a statement from Tito today.

The Italian radio said martial law was declared in Yugoslavia, but a dispatch telephoned from Belgrade to Prague said this was emphatically denied in the Yugoslav capital.

The Belgrade correspondent of the Associated Press said there was a story that martial law was declared around Nis, near the Bulgarian border, to allow police and soldiers to evacuate persons from a flood zone. The story could not be confirmed because of poor communications.

Communist headquarters in Belgrade repeated a promise to issue a statement in response to the Cominform denunciation "some time this afternoon."

"The Cominform had accused Tito and other Communist leaders of pursuing a hateful policy toward Russia, leaning toward the western powers, conducting a 'wrong' foreign and domestic policy and departing from the Marxist-Leninist line."

Belgrade dispatches yesterday said Tito was believed to be at his summer palace at Bielo in the north. He usually spends June there. A former Czechoslovak delegate to the United Nations said Tito still is in power. The fact remained that weeks had elapsed since the strutting marshal once a general in Russia's Red Army, had appeared in the news.

Tito, long regarded as a pillar of Communism and a steady follower of the party line, was denounced by the Cominform—the Communist International Information—

Storm Disrupts Freeman
Presses and Other Plants

The second electrical storm within the past five days hit Kingston early Monday afternoon, causing an interruption of electric power in a large portion of the city.

At about 2:40 p. m. a direct stroke of lightning near the Janesville avenue sub-station of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation took down all wires at that point and cut off the power in about one-fourth of the city. Edwin T. Strong, district manager of Central Hudson, reported.

The lightning bolt struck near the intersection of Garden street and Hasbrouck avenue, uprooting a tree at that location and taking down the wires leading from the sub-station just one block away.

Crews from Central Hudson were dispatched to the location, and police protection was obtained because of the danger from three high voltage lines which were among those broken, the police reported.

Among the industrial buildings affected by the interruption of power was The Freeman Building, where pressmen were just starting the afternoon press run on The Kingston Daily Freeman.

The power remained off from 2:40 until 3:20 p. m., causing the newspapers to be delayed in reaching their destinations.

Interruptions of power were also reported at the plant of Electro, Inc., Grand street, and the Great Bull Market at 83 Smith avenue.

Outside of the one direct hit near the electric company's sub-station, damage reported from the storm was not as great or as widespread as that caused by the previous storm last Thursday.

The Central Hudson reported "one or two" transformers struck and damaged by lightning in other locations in the county, and wires were reported down on Thomas street. The wires in this location fell on the wooden fence surrounding the Kingston Coal Company and began burning the fence, resulting in a call to the fire department. The fire department placed a guard on the wires until the arrival of Central Hudson crews.

The New York Telephone Company's Kingston office reported no trouble due to the storm.

Street Designated
For Auto Lessons
For City StudentsBoard of Education Takes Out Insurance on Project; to Use
Chevrolet

Chief of Police Raymond Van Buren, in accordance with the provisions of law, has designated West O'Reilly street from Mary's avenue to the West Shore railroad trestle as a street upon which beginner automobile drivers accompanied by an instructor may take driving lessons. This was done in order to have that section available for the motorcar driving course which will be given at the high school beginning July 5 in conjunction with summer school. The Board of Education had requested such designation as the area is close to the high school.

The motor car driving course, recently added to the high school, will make available a course of instruction in motor car operation and driving to high school students. There will be class room work as well as road driving courses. This course is sponsored by the American Automobile Association, which in conjunction with General Motors, supplies the dual control car for the road work. Locally the car being supplied is a Chevrolet car from Colonial City Chevrolet, Inc. of Kingston.

In conjunction with the driving course, Trustees Morgan for the insurance committee, reported that insurance had been placed to protect the board in the event of accident. The insurance was placed through the Eugene Carey agency.

The board voted to extend for another year the leave of absence of Myles Pollock.

John E. Lindherst, janitor at No. 5 school, was granted a six months leave of absence because of illness.

The Board of Education in adjourned session Monday evening voted consent to the Senior Class of 1948 to hold its commencement dance at the M.J.M. gym on June 30.

Permission was granted Island Dock, Inc., to drive its truck on the high school driveway to deliver concrete to the Shell gas station which is being erected adjacent to the high school. The firm will be responsible for any damage done.

The resignation of E. Jane Gulnac of Ashokan as substitute senior stenographer at the high school building was accepted.

She has accepted a position as clerk of the new Central School District recently formed on that area.

Craftsmen's Club of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., was granted use of the high school auditorium for a show next fall. Proceeds will be for educational and charitable purposes.

Designation Asked

A request was made by the Board of Public Works for a designation of the recreation grounds of the former Sahler property where the board proposes to erect a school building. At present it is being used for recreation and the Public Works Board sought to have the area designated by name for convenience in dispatching workers to the area. Board members felt that when new schools are built they should be designated by name rather than by number and Trustee Leehive moved that the Wall street area be temporarily designated as the Sahler park area until such time as a building is erected thereon.

A complaint that persons using the play area have damaged the property of the Home for the Aged was received. The Board of Education decided to refer the matter to the Building Committee and to seek police supervision of the area to see that the damage is stopped.

Trustee Leehive reported the new bleachers at the Municipal Auditorium were installed and ready for use at commencement.

The payroll amounting to $71,942.70 and general vouchers amounting to $55,737.24; Veterans Institutional on-the-farm Training payroll of $375; F.D.A. School Lunch program payroll and vouchers amounting to $3,499.70 all for June and F.D.A. School Lunch payroll and vouchers amounting to $7,044.90 for May were audited.

Haskins and Sells, certified public accountants, were employed to close the books for the school year and to audit the principals' accounts and the extra classroom and internal school funds.

Mrs. Lucille Kline Kalish was temporarily appointed teacher for another school year at a salary of $2,450.

Action Is Awaited

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Legislation providing pay increases for 1,278,000 federal workers today awaited action by President Truman. The measure approved in the final hours of the final Congress session grants permanent increases of $450 a year to about 478,000 postal workers and $330 to approximately 800,000 classified civil service employees. The bill also calls for boosts in some postal rates at the end of the year.

Cites Peru's Crisis

Lima, Peru, June 29 (AP)—President Jose Luis Bustamante Rivero declared last night that Peru is in a state of "acute national crisis." He said he will assume extraordinary powers to rule by decree.

Speaking in a nationwide broadcast, he said political tension in Peru has become "dangerous" and said there are indications "something violent and obscure is being hatched at the bottom of the political strata."

Stabilization Is Promised, Plus
Building of Confidence

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Britain promised today to keep her financial house in order in return for more than $4,000,000,000 in American aid over the next four and a quarter years.

In a lengthy agreement made public by the State Department, the British pledged that in exchange for U. S. assistance under the European Recovery Program their nation will:

"Stabilize its currency, establish or maintain a valid rate of exchange, balance its government budget, create or maintain internal financial stability and generally restore or maintain confidence in its monetary system."

While the agreement must be approved by the British parliament by July 3 if American aid now flowing under a temporary act is not to halt, such ratification was expected with little trouble. If the agreement is okayed after the deadline, American shipments would be resumed.

The 10,000-word document contains numerous provisions designed to insure British cooperation in a coordinated recovery effort in western Europe.

The British pledged, among other things, to "facilitate the transfer" to the United States of strategic raw materials needed for stockpiling purposes.

The agreement also stated that the United States can end the agreement at any time upon six months notice.

Education Board
Sets New LimitKindergarten Age Now
Is 4 Years, 7 Months
in September '49

The Board of Education in line with state recommendations and in keeping with the rule of most other communities, voted Monday evening to raise the entrance age of Kingston pupils beginning in September 1949, when it will be necessary for a child to be four years and seven months of age on or before the opening day of school in order to enter kindergarten. This is one month older than the existing rule which will remain in effect this fall.

Raising the entrance age was done in conjunction with the rule that beginning in September, 1949, no student will be admitted to the first grade until a year in kindergarten has been had by pupils who attend a city public school in which a kindergarten is maintained.

In 1950 the entrance age in Kingston's public schools will become four years and eight months, that age being required on or before the opening day of school. The state's recommendation is that a pupil shall have reached the age

Dr. Henry W. Keator, who for the past seven years has served as medical supervisor of the Kingston school system, will retire from that position on July 1 and will be succeeded by Dr. Samuel S. Nussbaum, who has been assistant medical supervisor under Dr. Keator.

Dr. Nussbaum will be succeeded by Dr. John Roberts, who will become assistant medical director. The appointments of Dr. Nussbaum and Dr. Roberts were made at a meeting of the Board of Education Monday evening following notification that Dr. Keator would retire on July 1, having passed the retirement age. Both physicians will work on a part time basis with one of the physicians being on duty or call during school hours. The appointments were moved by Dr. Frederic Holcomb, chairman of the Health Committee, following a report of that committee. Soviet Blockade
Is Called Inhuman

Berlin, June 29 (AP)—The British military governor today denounced as "ruthless inhumanity" the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

The German city government prepared an appeal for United Nations intervention. Reports from Copenhagen said approaches had been made to the Danish government to transmit the appeal.

The British commander, Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, made his denunciation at a meeting of the German Zonal Advisory Council for the British zone at Hamburg.

Charter Body Told
Managerial Plan
Interests Business

The city manager plan of city government was brought before the members of the Charter Revision Commission for discussion again Monday night, but no conclusions either favoring or opposing the adoption of such a plan in the proposed new city charter were reached by the members, according to the report of Thomas W. Miller, secretary.

Arthur J. Burns, real estate agent, and W. Anderson Carl, treasurer of The Fessenden Shirt Company, appeared before the commission and stated they represented a group of local business men interested in having a city manager plan for Kingston.

Burns told commission members that that type of city government was discussed at a meeting of the Ulster County Real Estate Board and since that time several local business men have expressed an opinion that such a plan would better serve Kingston's needs than the present system.

Copies of a booklet, "Story of Council Manager Plan," were distributed to the Charter Revision Commission by the two men.

Chairman John J. Schwenk issued a statement following the meeting, warning citizens not to expect a perfect government from any type of plan.

"It should be kept in mind that a city charter, no matter how nearly perfect, does not and cannot insure good government. No mere plan can. Good government is a result obtained by having a qualified and conscientious individual to run the city. A modern, clearly-defined charter makes it possible, however, for those officials to do a better job without dissipating an enormous amount of time and energy to the many details under which we are now operating," Schwenk said.

Monday night's meeting was set following postponement of the regular meeting scheduled for last Thursday. The next regular meeting will be held on Thursday, July 1.

Lovett Meets Truman and Later Goes to White House Session of Cabinet

Meet With Bevin

Draper, Douglas Hold
London Huddle With Bevin

Washington, June 29 (AP)—United States officials were reported readying new, tough diplomatic moves today to crack Russia's land blockade of Berlin.

Although White House and State Department officials maintained a tight-lipped silence, indications mounted that a diplomatic stroke aimed directly at the Kremlin might be unleashed tomorrow or Thursday.

The nature of any such plan was cloaked in strictest secrecy, but signs pointed to a stern new demand that Russia lift the eight-day old blockade and quit other unity-hampering tactics—or take responsibility for the consequences.

The air force meanwhile stood ready to rush more cargo planes to the beleaguered German capital if needed to help ferry food and other urgently needed supplies to 2,500,000 residents cut off in the western zones.

Already some 39 giant C-54s were winging their way to Germany from as far away as Alaska and the Caribbean.

An air force spokesman said no further requests for planes had been received from U. S. occupation authorities. But he told a reporter scores more of the transport craft were available.

Meanwhile diplomatic and military officials held a fast-breaking series of conferences here and abroad which pointed to a new, broad front in the campaign.

These were the major developments:

1. Undersecretary of State Lovett conferred with President Truman yesterday and later attended a White House cabinet session. There was no official word on the topics under discussion, but it was learned that one of them was the Berlin situation.

2. Undersecretary of the Army, William Draper and U. S. Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas went into a London huddle with Britain's Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. Draper then flew to Berlin to join Lt. Gen. A. C. Wedemeyer of the U. S. general staff for conferences with the American commander, Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

3. Field Marshal Attlee summoned Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the British imperial general staff, to a special cabinet session last night.

Bevin meantime put off until Wednesday a statement on overall British policy in Germany which he had been scheduled to make before Parliament yesterday.

The series of conferences seemed to indicate American and British officials were speeding groundwork for the diplomatic moves presumably being worked out at top levels.

The fact that Bevin postponed his parliamentary report until Wednesday indicated that the United States and Britain may be planning simultaneous statements then.

Secretary of State Marshall is due to return to his desk Wednesday from Walter Reed Hospital where he has been undergoing a routine physical checkup. Either he or Lovett may have some announcement on the subject at the usual State Department news conference that day.

While hopeful that a strongly phrased note to Moscow would bring about a reversal of Russian policy, authorities here laid stress on actions rather than words to resolve the deadlock. They pointed out that the immediate task was to prevent starvation of Germans in their occupation zones.

2,500 Are Dead

Fukui, Japan, June 29 (AP)—The shattered Fukui area felt new earth tremors tonight. Military Government officers estimated Monday's earthquake casualties would mount to 2,500 dead and injured Japanese. No new damage was reported. All Americans in the stricken area escaped serious injury but a number were bruised and burned slightly. American relief reached the quake scene to aid the injured and homeless.

Maverick Theatre Opens Wednesday With Wilde Comedy

Woodstock, June 29.—"The Importance of Being Earnest," a comedy by Oscar Wilde will be presented by Tom Reddy on Wednesday evening and will mark the opening of the season at the Maverick Summer Theatre. Curtain time is 8:45 o'clock.

According to Manager Reddy, the Maverick is one of the first summer theatres to present the well-known comedy, this season. Managing as a fictitious character gets Jack Worthing into all sorts of difficult situations, with his ward, his fiancée and others.

Allen Brown will appear in the role of Jack Worthing. He was with the Lake Huron Playhouse in Michigan for the past two summer seasons. He also toured for several seasons with Clare Street Major productions and with the American Civic Opera Company in the role of Franz Joseph in "Marinka."

Others appearing will be Kathy Gilmore, Kay Dawn, Helen Bernsten, Dick Williams, Tony Phillips and Cliff Kirwan.

It was learned from Mr. Reddy that the group at the Maverick Summer Theatre is an entirely new one and in no way connected with those who had the theatre last year.

The present company is a permanent one and every member assists in preparing for the openings. Besides acting, the entire company assists in the building of stage sets and other necessary work. Roy Graves, formerly of the Emerson College Theatre in Boston, designs the sets and supervises construction.

The theatre will be open Wednesday through Sunday nights each week.

Champanier Has Show at Mitchell's

Woodstock, June 29.—The Gladys Mitchell Gallery will open on Thursday at 8:30 p. m. with a one-man show by A. A. Champanier. This well-known artist, a former Woodstocker, now conducts a school of art at Saxton Falls, Saugerties, and is also one of the instructors of the Ulster County Artists Association.

His mural work is to be seen in many leading New York hotels as well as elsewhere throughout the country.

The gallery will be open every day except Mondays, from 2 to 5 p. m. and from 8 to 10 p. m.

Memorial Field Opening Postponed

Woodstock, June 29.—Great disappointment is being registered by young and old in the community because the anticipated opening of the Woodstock Memorial Recreation Field on July 1 will be postponed.

William West, chairman of the recreation committee, has stated that one week of clear weather will be ample to complete the work on the baseball field and playground. Now that schools in the township are closed for vacation, the youngsters are in touch with Bill almost every day to learn when they may begin the summer program all have looked forward to.

Wins Beauty Contest, Despite Bishop's Stand

Wheeling, W. Va., June 29 (AP)—An 18-year-old girl who defied a threat of expulsion from the Catholic church is "Miss Wheeling" today.

Competing against six other girls last night, Miss Marluth Ford won the right to compete for a $2,000 scholarship and the title of "Miss West Virginia" in a state-wide contest to be held at Moundsville in August. The state winner will enter the Miss America contest in Atlantic City.

Two girls withdrew from the contest when Bishop John J. Swint of Wheeling said he would excommunicate any Catholic girl who participated.

The bishop last week protested the "indecent exposure" of girls' bodies in "totally pagan" beauty pageants, and said: "How any girl can submit herself to that ordeal is beyond me."

The winner's father, a grocer here, said it was "just a case of the church having one view and the parents another."

Miss Ford, who hopes to become an actress, weighs 109 pounds, is five feet, three inches tall, and has light brown hair and green eyes. In the course of her competition she appeared both in a one-piece bathing suit and in a full-skirted evening gown, and enacted part of a scene from the movie "Dark Victory."

Keator to Retire

"the interest and assistance afforded by these students and the members of your staff should insure out obtaining sufficient evidence to justify conclusions on the value of the material used in the immunization program."

"The final results must await the rather tedious laboratory work which is being done by the New York State Health Department. So far, they have tested 260 of the 380 bloods secured on March 1 and it has been discovered that about 1/3 of the students tested did not have sufficient immunity to protect them from diphtheria."

All these students were immunized on March 1 and the blood tests which were recently taken on May 27 will let us know how much immunity these students have developed. In the event that the Lederle purogenated toxoid which produced the least number of reactions after inoculations also proves valuable in raising the blood antibody level, we will be in a position to recommend the use of this immunizing agent for similar age groups. The Division of Communicable Diseases in the State Health Department is very keenly interested in this work and are awaiting our results in order to formulate their policy regarding immunization of this age group.

"I believe we should compliment the students of the high school for their interest in this study. They and their parents should realize the value of this study for themselves, since about 100 children who definitely were susceptible to diphtheria have now been immunized and for a period of at least 3-5 years should be resistant to infection by the diphtheria organism."

The annual report of Dr. Keator as Medical Supervisor for the past year was also offered by the Health Committee and filed. The completeness of the report, the amount of work done and the corrective measures taken to correct defects found on examinations was commended by the Board members.

Senate House Is Closed Too Long C. of C. Contends

Although the Senate House has been closed for nearly two years the Senate House Museum is attracting many visitors to Kingston, according to a statement by Mrs. Terwilliger, custodian, to Albert Kurdt, secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. Unfortunately the repair work being done in the Senate House is taking much longer than anticipated.

The Alton B. Parker collection in the Senate House Museum is one of the best of its kind in the country, Mr. Kurdt stated. It has recently been assembled and is now on exhibit in the left wing of the museum. It was presented by Mrs. Alton B. Parker and the late Judge Parker. It contains autographs and photographs of each elected governor of the state and a few colonial governors.

Mrs. Terwilliger reported that many students of history from all parts of the country come to visit the Senate House. They are very much disappointed to find the Senate House closed, but a visit to the museum is usually found to be exceedingly interesting.

The Chamber of Commerce is making an effort to find out if the repair work can be speeded so that visitors, who travel long distances to visit the Senate House, are not disappointed when they find it closed.

Army Gives Answers Regarding Draft Law

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Here are some questions put to the Army about the draft and Army's answers, in whole or in part:

Can selectees volunteer for the regular army?

Each selectee will be encouraged to enlist in the regular military establishment at any time after he has entered service by induction. The emphasis should be on obtaining enlistments for the longest term possible.

Are selectees going to be trained separately or are they going to be mixed together with the regular outfits?

Selectees will not be trained separately, but will be trained with and in the same manner as volunteers.

How long will we be trained before they are sent overseas? It is anticipated that no enlisted personnel will be sent overseas without having a minimum of eight weeks' basic training.

Will primary emphasis be on training for fighting or for occupation duty?

Fighting. The whole training doctrine of the army is to develop a trained soldier capable of performing efficiently his primary mission in combat.

Will the selectees be trained in accordance with universal military training plan or like regular army volunteers? (Congress has not approved a U.M.T. plan, proposed by the army.)

The selectee will be trained like the regular army volunteer. However, the present plan contemplates an eight weeks basic training course temporarily until units of the army have been properly filled, after which the usual 12 or 13 weeks program will obtain. Furthermore, some of the principles developed in the experimental unit at Fort Knox have been and will be incorporated in regular army training program.

Will women be drafted?

No.

Will army draftees be able to transfer to the air force or navy if they want to?

No, and vice versa.

Will we have a "broomstick" army?

No. Adequate material is available to train new personnel.

Is adequate housing available?

Mobilization-type World War II buildings will be utilized to house trainees. We have relatively few funds with which to dress them up, but by concentrating our expenditures on the essentials, we will be able to provide year-round basic comfort. Luxury is out of the question.

Will he be given a job commensurate with his abilities? Will he be able to continue his civilian occupation in the army?

In instances where he has a skill readily convertible to an army job and assuming he is sufficiently well qualified therein, normally he will be selected for that type of assignment. In this respect, however, the needs of the service must govern.

What steps are being taken to utilize newly trained men after they finish their 21 months of service?

The bill provides for the transfer of each individual to a reserve component upon completion of a normal tour of service by induction.

Why can't the army get enough volunteer enlistments?

The competition with the other services and with civilian life is too keen.

Will the draftee be stationed near home?

In general personnel being inducted from civil life will be ordered to the training division nearest his home. However upon completion of basic training in either the training division or in units an enlisted man inducted under Selective Service will become available for army-wide assignment and will be assigned to the army area where the greatest need for his service exists.

Will he have to serve overseas? He will be available for world-wide assignment. This does not, of course, apply to the 18-year-old volunteers.

How often can he come home? He will be authorized the same leave as officers and enlisted men of the regular army—thirty days a year. He probably will have little opportunity during his basic training to go home. During the remainder of the year, within training requirements, furloughs up to thirty days each year are authorized.

What about his disrupted education? The Army has an education program now functioning which will enable the draftee to continue his formal studies on off-duty time. There will be educational courses available to him which will fit directly into his educational plans for the future and which are, in general, accredited by civilian educational institutions.

Will parents of selectees be able to visit on the post where their son is stationed? In the World War II program the Army provided guest houses operated by the post exchange for this purpose. These facilities will be reopened within the limits of resources at re-activated training centers and will be available at nominal charges. Feeding facilities will be available through service club cafeterias.

Will Communists be drafted? There is no provision in the law for excluding Communists.

What about the courts-martial system? There is no peculiar courts-martial system applicable to the inductees. They will be subject to the Articles of War as are all other members of the military establishment.

Will selectees be entitled to veteran benefits as the "G.I. Bill" provided for World War II vets? The "G.I. Bill" does not apply to those entering the Army after July 25, 1947. Under present legislation, the selectee who has completed his term of service in a satisfactory manner will be entitled to very liberal reemployment benefits.

What about race segregation? Our policy must continue to be the employment of Negro troop units of appropriate size and composition in the best interests of overall efficiency. There will be no opportunity and lack of discrimination between races.

Will inductees be given airborne training at centers where there are airborne divisions? No soldiers will be given airborne training unless they volunteer for service in an airborne unit.

Will he be given a job commensurate with his abilities? Will he be able to continue his civilian occupation in the army?

In instances where he has a skill readily convertible to an army job and assuming he is sufficiently well qualified therein, normally he will be selected for that type of assignment. In this respect, however, the needs of the service must govern.

Will Fly to Europe

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The United States Air Force, which some day may need quick reinforcement in Europe, will send 16 jet fighters off on an exploratory transatlantic flight next week. The mission of the trip, said a U.S.A.F. announcement today, is "to determine the feasibility of ferrying jet-propelled combat aircraft over the route, study the logistical and operational problems involved" and get in some limited training overseas. The first overseas flight of U.S.A.F. jets will be along the stepping-stone North Atlantic route to England and Germany.

Report Is Denied

Belgrade, June 29 (AP)—An Italian radio report that martial law was declared in Yugoslavia was denied here today. However, advices received here said martial law was declared around Nis on the Bulgarian border to permit police and soldiers to evacuate persons from a flood zone.

Named After Town

The word worsted, applied to a firmly twisted yarn of long-staple wool, combed in a certain way, is derived from the name of an English town where it was first made. The town's name is now spelled Worstead.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 29, 1948

HOME, BUILDING

Somewhere in the United States the two millionth postwar home is being completed about now. Melvin H. Baker, spokesman for the construction industry, considers this "a truly remarkable performance in view of the dislocated and shut-down condition of the industry at the end of the war."

In 1947, the Construction Industry Information Committee says, 849,000 homes were started and 831,700 were completed. Completions were only 17,000 under the number for 1926.

We share in Mr. Baker's pride in that achievement. It is distinctly to the credit of an industry that has been harassed by many obstacles. So we are not casting asparagus or hurling scallions when we suggest that, big as it is, the achievement still does not meet the nation's pressing needs.

Go right along building a million new homes every year, and it will be fifteen or twenty years before we get one home for each American family.

The basic figures are inadequate and to some extent argumentative. Ploughing down the middle it is possible to make some fairly sound estimates based on a blending of governmental and industry figures.

At the end of 1947 there probably were around 4,000,000 families for which there was no separate housing. American Builder, highly respected in the industry, estimated some time ago that the number of non-form families needing homes would grow by almost 4,700,000 from 1946 to 1956. Experts say that between three and four hundred thousand housing units a year are lost from fire, storm, flood and other casualty, including those torn down to make way for business and industrial construction.

Add 470,000 and 300,000, and you get a minimum of 770,000 houses and apartments needed merely to care for growth and replacement. That leaves 230,000—if we build only a million a year—toward housing the 4,000,000 already without homes at the end of 1947.

Divide 230,000 into 4,000,000, and it would take 17 years and almost five months to get enough homes.

It should be noted that these figures have to do only with providing each family with a separate roof. They take no account of whether that roof keeps out the rain—whether it covers minimum sanitation and other living requirements. In other words, they ignore entirely the fact that millions are living in substandard quarters.

Nobody knows how much more construction would be needed to provide every family with a decent home, because there is no generally accepted definition of what goes to make a decent home.

Today hundreds of thousands of families are living in slum and semi-slum homes not because they can't pay for decent quarters, but because our great nation does not possess enough passable housing for all who, some way, would manage to pay for it.

By all means let's take pride and give credit to builders for reaching the million home a year pace. But let's remember that even that isn't enough to give every family a home to which children not yet in school will be able to take their brides.

COLLEGE DEGREES

If a college degree is to be accepted as a sign of an educated person, why give it at the end of the college course, when it is too soon to tell whether the new graduate is really educated or not? Why not wait 10 years to see whether his academic training has enabled him to grow mentally and continue growing?

This radical suggestion comes from Dr. George H. Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, speaking at the Colgate University commencement. He would have the 10-year graduate return to his college or university and give some proof of the continuance of his intellectual interests. Serious reading would be one piece of evidence. Then he could appear again at the 25th anniversary of graduation and, if his record warranted it, receive his degree. This would certainly limit the number of

THE LAST ON CONVENTIONS

The convention device is too primitive to be of continued value. Certainly, the business of selecting a President of the United States ought to be a more serious business, a more sober procedure. Jiggling girls, prancing on the rostrum, hired kids shouting from the balconies, milling men and women who managed to get tickets but representing nothing do not present a picture of calm deliberation.

The various committees of arrangements in the future ought to set up rules which would prevent candidates from filling the galleries with so-called "youths" who are there to cheer and boo and act like fools and hoodlums. There was not one spontaneous ovation and demonstration when any candidate was nominated, nor were all or even most who milled about on the floor delegates. The kids were given assistant sergeant-at-arms badges to get in and plenty got in without any badges or any tickets.

Fun is fun, but a convention to select a President is neither a circus nor a vaudeville show—and all this juvenile stuff ought to cease forthwith and forever. And another disgrace is the agreement by which the convention is prolonged and dragged out to make it last long enough to satisfy the merchants and hotel keepers who put up some money to bring the show to their town. All the doings at the Republican convention could have been over on Wednesday if the business had been efficiently managed. But it was permitted to drag and drag endlessly.

Joe Martin may be a wonderful Speaker of the House of Representatives but he could not keep this convention in order and moving, probably because it had to waste time to please the hotels. Also, Joe must have had a love for the demonstrations because he let them continue long after they were well over.

Unless you have seen these ovals, you cannot imagine how silly they are. Men and women walk about with their candidate's name or singing his theme song. "The Voice of the Sewer" at the 1944 Chicago convention may have been ridiculous, but the voice of George Bender singing the Four Leaf Clover song was equally stupid and ugly. It did not make a vote for Senator Taft.

Someone has to break through this silly tradition, for no better word describes it than silly. It costs party managers large fortunes and makes the convention itself ridiculous. It looks like tomfoolery, which it is. Or is it possible that this imbecile galavanting is necessary to keep the delegates from being bored?

Television will in time spoil all this, but it will never end until some candidate can get himself nominated without it. Senator Homer Ferguson broke one tradition when he seconded Vandenberg without making one of those enormous five-minute speeches that uniformly say nothing but go on everlastingly. He cut through that ice, but as his man was not nominated, it made little impression on the convention. Maybe some day someone will kill off the demonstration and ovation.

Also, the committees on arrangement might pick a cool town for a late June convention, some place where there is a breeze and a little freshness of atmosphere. The heat at the Philadelphia show was unbearable and I can only pity the poor Democrats who will meet in the middle of July. Why not take such a convention to the Adirondacks or to the Yellowstone Park? Why pick a hot spot? Is it to keep the delegates from thinking of anything but the weather?

I am not griping. I am crusading against dopey traditions that hang on because there is insufficient courage to kill them. I am protesting against stupidity. I want to shame the party managers. I want to stimulate anger in the delegates. Maybe it cannot be done. Maybe they like to sweat while a young kid goes through disgraceful exhibitionism on the stage. Maybe they think that is the way to pick a President of the United States.

IRRITABILITY IN CHILDREN

When we see a boy or girl "acting up" in public, refusing to do as he or she is told or doing something forbidden, we may want to spank the child or else the parents for allowing the child to put it over them in public. There is no doubt that in the majority of cases of misbehaving children the youngster or the parents are to blame.

Now we all know that when a youngster is tired or hungry he is not his best self and is more likely to act up by crying spells, tantrums and other kinds of misbehavior. Thus, to prevent this "acting up" by these youngsters, seeing that they get enough rest and food should be our first thought.

However, just as allergy or sensitiveness to various substances causes head colds, asthma, hay fever and stomach upsets, we are now learning that allergy may cause fatigue or tiredness and is a common cause of irritability and abnormalities of behavior in children.

In the "Journal of Pediatrics" (children's diseases), Dr. T. G. Randolph states that this fatigue causing bad behavior in children usually results from chronic food allergy involving sensitiveness to more than one food, though wheat and corn are most often to blame.

Dr. Randolph states that these cases of allergy causing misbehavior fall into two groups: The first and larger group—as illustrated by three cases in boys eight and nine years of age—were tired all the time, sluggish and depressed. The second group—I case is reported, that of an eight-year-old boy—is the high-strung, active, excitable child. The children in both groups are inclined to be irritable and fretful in their behavior, and do not get along well in both the home and the school. Their school work is not satisfactory because concentration and memory are poor.

Fortunately for the child and parents, in most cases there are other signs of allergy present—head colds, stomach upsets, bronchitis, asthma, which point to allergy as the cause of their behavior. However, irritability may be the only symptom.

The thought, then, is that in dealing with behavior symptoms in children, the fact that food allergy may be a factor should not be forgotten.

degree-holders, and encourage those who received degrees to keep themselves interested in intellectual development. But the Bachelor of Arts degree at present indicates the successful accomplishment of a certain course of work. Perhaps we need other degrees for those who at 10 or 25 years could present evidence of further growth and usefulness.

PEARSON'S G.O.P. ANALYSIS

Immediately prior to the Republican Convention, Drew Pearson published a series of columns diagnosing the G.O.P. candidates. He rated Governor Dewey as the ablest of the "active" candidates. Governor Warren of California, described as an "inactive candidate," was rated one notch higher in ability than Dewey. Both men came out at the head of the Republican ticket, though in reverse order.

Washington, D. C., June 29, 1948

Mrs. George L. Arnold, Los Angeles, Calif.
My dear daughter,

Last week I attended the Republican National Convention. And I could not help but wonder as I watched the parades and the enthusiasm and the milling delegates whether they realized that what they did at Philadelphia might affect the lives of your son and millions of other youngsters almost as much as the Declaration of Independence which other delegates signed in the same city 30 blocks away a century and a half ago.

It was quite a respectable convention—no excessive drinking, no under-the-table deals that I could discover except on patronage; not even any rebel yells or that passionate frenzy that makes democratic conventions more exciting. The pillars of home-town respectability were there, uninspiring perhaps, but determined.

They nominated two good men—among the best in the country. Furthermore they nominated them in free and open competition, the healthiest thing about the Republican race and the exact opposite of the dog-in-manger attitude of certain Democratic presidents.

Unlike the Democrats, the Republicans have developed some tough, hard-working leaders, and their convention benefited from it.

Politics Forgets Atomic Energy
Of course the lady who runs our house was disappointed that her candidate, Senator Taft, wasn't nominated. And I have to agree with her that Bob Taft will go down in history for his spunk and courage and honesty.

But I think Taft forgets one great thing—the thing, incidentally, that was missed by nearly all the speakers and delegates at this convention—namely that we are living in an atomic age—an age that moves so fast we dare not take one false step for fear we get left behind.

That was what so many speakers seemed to forget at this convention.

Squeezed almost off the front pages by the political news was an alarming word from Berlin that the Russians once again were trying to push us out of Berlin. Almost squeezed off the front pages also was news that President Truman had signed the peacetime draft—probably the most momentous legislation in recent history.

In other words we face the prospect of war again within our generation. We face the prospect that that son of yours, and thousands of other sons, may have to march off to another war.

This was the most important thing the Republicans overlooked. Isolationists Bore from Within
They overlooked it partly because they couldn't afford to face it, partly because they were so busy fighting a rear-guard action against the isolationists within their own ranks—the leaders who still think the U.S.A. can remain aloof from the world. Your cousin Bertie McCormick put up the chief fight on this point. That was the reason he walked out of the convention at the end rather than vote for Dewey—also why he refused to let the Illinois Delegation, over which he remained supreme, support anyone but Taft.

To the bitter end, Cousin Bertie and his Chicago Tribune remained aloof and alone—the way they would like to have the United States.

That is one issue the Democratic Party hasn't had to worry about, and is one reason their leadership on foreign affairs has been much more farsighted.

Though the Republicans at Philadelphia finally defeated the isolationists, they dared not move forward. Instead they looked backward. Most of the speakers spent their time lambasting their favorite whipping boys, Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Dangerous New Deal
One would have thought, from hearing their orations, that no other problem existed in the world, no Russian squeeze in Berlin, no race to develop atomic energy, no danger of bomb raids over the North Pole—only the deadly danger of the New Deal. G.O.P. orators talked as if they actually and seriously thought the American people would stand for the repeal of the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Wagner Act, the A.A.A. Farm Act, soil erosion, the Holding Corporation Act, the Social Security Act, old age pensions, rural electrification, or the Tennessee Valley Authority.

They talked as if they didn't realize that the man whom they nominated to head their ticket had adopted many of these "revolutionary" measures in his own state of New York; or as if they did not know their vice-presidential candidate had adopted many of these same ideas in California.

What they honestly didn't seem to realize is that most of the New Deal is too firmly a part of American life to be given up; that what the American people want is forward leadership not backward regrets.

In the humble opinion of your Dad, what the American people are really looking for is security—of two kinds. The security they want from war abroad is obvious, though difficult to get. The security they want at home is easier—if the new leaders of the Republican party really lead.

That domestic security consists of freedom from inflation, freedom to earn a living wage, freedom to send their children to good schools, freedom from want in old age.

And that security will not be obtained if people in the lower brackets are not able to buy, or if the recent G.O.P. plan to forgive rich men on taxes is continued, or if the real-estate lobby throttles public housing, or if our long cherished public-school system plays second fiddle to tax saving.

Those are some of the things which Republican orators, so busy whipping the New Deal, neglected at Philadelphia.

I am reasonably sure that broad-gauged leaders such as Dewey and Warren will not neglect them. But their greatest handicap may be the dead weight of the reactionaries inside the Republican party.

That was the most important fact that stood out at Philadelphia, and that is what the American people will have to watch while they go to the polls next November.

Please excuse this long political letter.

Love from,

The old man.

Lesson in Practical Politics Can Be Learned From Republican National Convention

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 29—Many a lesson in practical politics can be learned from the Republican National Convention—not the least of which is that there are no rules or traditions which cannot be broken if circumstances require it.

Four years ago, immediately after Governor Dewey's defeat by the late President Roosevelt, many Republicans began counting out the losing candidate. It was said that he could not be nominated a second time because the Republicans were renominating a loser. The Democrats had done it often. The fact that the electorate once had passed an unfavorable verdict has never seemed to disturb the Democrats at all.

In the case of Thomas Dewey, it was the fact that he was governor of the largest state of the union and had an opportunity to play an active part in politics that won him constant attention. He himself jocularly referred at Washington dinners to the party tradition about never renominating a loser. But apparently neither he nor his associates took this seriously.

Looking back to the dispatches written in the days immediately following the November 1944 election by this correspondent, the following observation is recalled:

"As to Gov. Dewey's prospects for another try in 1948, this will depend on what he does when he comes up for re-election as governor in 1946. If he demonstrates that he has carried New York state that year by a bigger majority than ever before, he may win the presidential nomination in 1948. He is young enough and if the managers of the party can vote themselves to building up the Republican party organizations in the next four years, Dewey may have another try at the presidency."

One of the governor's closest friends, on reading that paragraph when it was published, expressed hearty concurrence and pointed to the unfortunate belief of many politicians that a second nomination was not customary.

Governor Dewey, however, not only carried New York state in 1946 by a bigger majority than he had the first time but by a record-breaking majority. He had the same remarkable opportunities for contact with the governors of other states as the late Franklin Roosevelt had when he was governor of New York. Governor Dewey won the second nomination because he had the inside track throughout the many state delegations, not a few of which were presided over or managed by governors.

There is no doubt about it—the governorship of New York remains today, as always, a good stepping-stone to the presidency. So also does the governorship of many another state, though it is questionable whether the training a governor gets fits him as immediately for duties in Washington as does training in Congress.

Not every senator or representative who has been a candidate for the presidency was necessarily a good choice because of his membership in Congress but the men trained as leaders would have made good Presidents. One difficulty about a governor who comes to Washington is that he has to learn the ropes in national policy and legislation and it takes a year or more to get familiar with the national processes.

There is no doubt, on the other hand, that experience with a state legislature is helpful in dealing with the national Congress. As between a governor of high qualification and a real leader from Congress, there is much to be said for the experience gained by the latter.

The system in our national government is more complex than ever and it takes first-hand knowledge of national problems to enable a President to steer a successful course. One hopes the day will not be far distant when a President can take office without the need of a "brain trust," and one who can write, his own speeches instead of using "ghost" writers.

One hopes also that the day is not far distant when, under a parliamentary system, it will be necessary that the Chief Executive be selected out of the leadership in Congress and be responsive to the will of the people, not on the terms of the party. Political traditions are being broken as good leadership becomes more than ever essential.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Philadelphia, June 25—The elephantine symbol of the new Republican party is no true get of the noble, it sometimes dumb and headstrong, rogue of the days before F. D. Roosevelt. He is a monster out of the stables of Alcoholics Anonymous with traces of donkey, monkey, eagle and auk, and a Henry Cabot Lodge would take this horrible hybrid down in the south forty and shoot him for riddance.

All week, a grotesque mock-elephant, made of plastic or some such chicle wrested from the sorcerer's cauldrons of that brave new world of the future, alternately swelled and sagged on the canopy across the sidewalk on the Broad street side of the Bellevue-Stratford. It was a most hallucination with an insipid mouth and a listless trunk and, in all, a fugitive from Walt Disney's imbecilities. The mahouts of the party stood watches throughout the convention and whenever this unpredictable pachyderm began to droop, the knees melting and the hind collapsing as though flinching from the cruel goads of the New Deal, these hostlers rushed out with tanks and valves and blew him full of gas again.

One day there was an item in the papers, inspired, perhaps by some sinister propaganda, reporting that this baggage had been rented from a wandering circus now playing in Texas and had been reached by a local ligament. The Republicans' might better have let the plaintiff have him and got him out of sight, for he was a leering symbol of the corruption of the Republican party's character and principles by the influence of the New Deal.

He was no true son of Jumbo or Bolivar.

The Republicans had adopted Harry S. Truman's program of social and civil disparagement of the white south for the appeasement and seduction of the northern negroes and of the continental aliens of New York and Philadelphia and a few other eastern cities. These aliens were colonized by Roosevelt and Eleanor the Great, Lincoln and father forgive them, Bill O'Dwyer, the mayor of New York, and a number of other fine, Irish b'yes in the mysterious metropolitan Democratic machines. These aliens are more Communist than the Democratic and they always enrolled in the American Labor Party after the Communist Party subsided for a while and for a purpose. They did this to put themselves on the extreme left border of Roosevelt's and as close as could be to Stalin's. In a test election in the Bronx, they elected a candidate for Congress who was the candidate of Henry Wallace who is the candidate of Josef Stalin for president of the United States.

The Truman Civil Rights Program, not to put too fine a point upon it, has been the program of the Communists for fifteen years. It was adopted by Roosevelt, not out of any regard for Negroes whom he treated as racial inferiors, or for decency at the polls, for which he showed aggressive abhorrence, but for the purposes of a political coup.

The Republicans have now embraced the same articles for the same reasons and with equal hypocrisy, for they are no more social with colored men in daily life than the white men of Natchez or Jackson. However, their embarrassment is relatively less because they have always paid lip service, a term I find only though obscure, to the theory of inter-racial social doings.

The Republicans have felt also that they had to endorse the Communists' demand for federal intrusion in local police cases which by a shyster's distortion can be construed as lynchings. They did however refrain from exempting lynchings done by union thugs on picket lines and in other anarchies fomented by unions as Truman's program did. That doubtless will mean that in the next few years, under President Dewey, Congress will pass a law whereby conspirators in the smokehouse of the Communist party can kick up technical lynchings on pretexts. Then local governments and police will be driven frantic trying to keep out of trouble with the Department of Justice under the anti-lynching law. And presently we will have another dead-letter law like prohibition.

Under good, orthodox Republican doctrine, cities and counties had their own exclusive responsibility in all disorders short of actual armed rebellion and this concession by the party is that monster of so hideous men mention that.

The Democrats made such violent propaganda for sixteen years that they not only effaced from the intelligence of the people all knowledge of the principles of the American system of government but thereby compelled the Republicans to adopt these heresies.

Vandenberg and Stassen were licked not by their philanthropic foreign policies but by ordinary political factors. The foreign and eleemosynary policies of the party are no less lavish than theirs and Tom Dewey has vowed before his Creator and the delegates to put it through.

And all this was originally, and still is, intrinsically, Democratic medicine invented to redeem F. D. Roosevelt's eternal crimes at the expense of the citizens whom he called "my friends."

tion Bureau—and told to mend his ways or be purged.

From all appearances, the denunciation caught many Communists flat-footed, since the reaction was not so prompt as is customary. There was no immediate comeback from inside Yugoslavia.

At Lake Success, Dr. Jan Papanek, former Czech U.N. delegate expressed belief that Tito may be in grave personal danger, while high U.S. diplomatic officials in Washington expressed the opinion that the Yugoslav marshal and his associates may already have been "taken care of."

By "taken care of," they meant Tito may have been removed as head of Yugoslavia's government, or merely "immobilized" for a period of thinking and repentance—or liquidated.

The text of the Cominform's 3,000-word blast seemed to indicate that Tito and his men may yet have a chance, it said, at one point.

The aim of these sound elements of the Communist party of Yugoslavia is to force their present leading factors to confess openly and honestly their faults and correct them; to part from nationalism; to return to internationalism and in every way to fix the united Socialist front against imperialism.

Of if the present leaders of the Communist party of Yugoslavia prove unable to do this task, to change them and to raise from below a new internationalistic leadership of the Communist party in Yugoslavia. The Information Bureau does not doubt that the Communist party can fulfill this task.

Nonetheless, the Cominform statement showed, this will be an uphill struggle, because of recent acts.

The central committee of the Communist party of Yugoslavia puts itself and the Yugoslav Communist party outside the family of brotherly Communist parties, outside the Communist front and, therefore, outside the rank of the Information Bureau.

First reaction had sort of a startled appearance.

In the first place the publication of the Cominform statement in the Czech Communist paper Rude Pravo yesterday appeared to have jumped the Communist time table. It originally was scheduled for publication in Communist papers this morning.

Rude Pravo, however, prints up first editions in advance for the provinces. Copies of these fell into the hands of foreign correspondents who sent out the story, scooping Communist papers elsewhere.

Word from other European capitals is that some Communist editors are pretty sore.

The Moscow radio was silent on the subject for hours after the blast became public. The Soviet-licensed news agency in Berlin said it didn't know anything about it.

In Warsaw, diplomatic sources said there were strong indications that Cominform headquarters may be moved from Belgrade to Warsaw.

In Austria, official Austrian quarters thought the affair might tend to improve Austria's chances for a peace treaty, since Yugoslav territorial claims have been one of the main stumbling blocks.

American and British officials in Germany thought perhaps Yugoslav's strong desire for goods from the west—including machinery and manufactured goods—might have had some connection with Tito's troubles.

In Belgrade, the Communist Party's central committee was to be informed of the Cominform denunciation this afternoon. The people of the country were not told about it at once.

The denunciation was contained in a resolution adopted at a Cominform meeting this month in Romania—a meeting at which Yugoslav, one of the nine-nation Cominform's founders last year, was not represented.

It singled out, for criticism, in addition to Tito, Vice Premier Edvard Kardelj, one of the Cominform founders; Milovan Djilas, minister for Montenegro, a Yugoslav state; and Lt. Gen. Alexander Rankovic, minister of interior and head of Yugoslavia's police force.

Andrija Zhdanov, a member of the Politburo in Russia and rated one of the three most powerful men in the Soviet Union, attended the meeting in Romania and signed the denunciation.

Rumors of trouble and of the Cominform meeting have been circulating for some time, but Rude Pravo's publication was the first definite word of what was going on.

First signs of dissension inside Yugoslavia were seen when Svetozar Djokovic and Andrea Hebrang, former ministers in the government, were purged. Cominform said they were thrown out of the party because they had dared to criticize the anti-Soviet conceptions of the leaders and to express themselves for the friendship of Yugoslavia with Soviet Russia.

Some saw it as another hint of trouble when Marshal Tito's 56th birthday passed last May 25 without the customary congratulatory message from Prime Minister Stalin.

In London, Yugoslav diplomats said no severance of relations between Yugoslavia and other Red belt nations is involved; that it means only a party split. They said that while the Cominform has no disciplinary power as such, it has the right to point out deviations from the party line by individuals, groups or whole parties.

In Moscow Pravda devoted its entire second page today to the Cominform resolution condemning Tito. There was no editorial comment. No other Moscow paper printed the resolution. Pravda is the organ of the Communist party.

The Bulgarian Communist Party issued a communique today approving the Cominform resolution denouncing Tito and other Yugoslav leaders.

Meanwhile, Yugoslav morning papers ignored today the Cominform headquarters may form's statement but the news is percolating around by grapevine.

The general atmosphere in Belgrade is calm, with daily life continuing as usual and no extra security measures apparent anywhere. The government is in complete control of the situation and there appears to be very little possibility of a disturbance.

To those in Belgrade who heard about the Cominform condemnation of Tito the news came as such a surprise that no one could say much.

Foreign correspondents were told last night that the Communist Party's central committee will meet this afternoon to be informed of the Cominform declaration.

The Communist Party numbered about 14,000 in Yugoslavia when war broke out in 1941, according to an official statement, but 80 per cent of them were killed during the war.

Today the party numbers around 400,000 members, of which most joined after the end, or near the end, of the war and whom Tito organized, led and taught their Communism.

of four years and nine months before acceptance in school. Kingston's entering age will be a month under the state's recommendation.

The requirement that all pupils must have completed a year in kindergarten before admission to the first grade, was advocated some time ago by the Board following the installation of kindergarten facilities in each of the city's schools except No. 1 school. Kindergarten work in September, 1949, will therefore become a full part of the grade school prescribed course.

Requirement of attendance at kindergarten prior to entrance to the first grade was deemed necessary by the board members in order that all pupils have an equal start.

In presenting the rule that kindergarten be required, it was pointed out that 50% of the failures in the first grade this year were among pupils who had not attended kindergarten and had therefore not had the advantage of this early instruction.

Trustee Leehive moved the adoption of the resolution calling for the starting age increase from four years six months as it now exists to four years and seven months in 1949 and four years and eight months in 1950. The resolution was unanimously approved.

Notice of the requirement for kindergarten training prior to entering the first grade was voted at this time so that parents who had not planned to have their children take the kindergarten course next September but had planned to enter them directly in grade work the following year, may have sufficient notice of the change and enroll the children next September in kindergarten and thus place the children in position to begin grade work in September 1949. In September 1949 no pupil will be admitted to the first grade who has not completed a year of kindergarten work.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, June 28—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharrock and two sons, occasional summer visitors to Shokan, motored up from Richmond Hill Sunday and were at the camp of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter, for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Santi Nadal are riding around in one of the new Plymouth cars.

The cent of STJ was realized by the Shokan Ladies Aid Society at a strawberry supper last week. The ladies desire to thank all who assisted with the improvement which was completed to the Reformed Church basement under the Homer Markle Jr. west end parsonage, donated his services in erecting the rooms.

Mrs. Isaac Carter and son, Ernest, of Longfellow, were at the picnic on the old state road during the week end. Emmett, an IBM employee in the Bridge City, reports that a fourth plant of the company has been completed there with General Eisenhower and Arthur Godfrey being numbered among the speakers on the occasion.

Looking Backward
June 30, 1903: Real estate transfer is held at property at West Shokan (from Elmer Hendle to Mrs. J. H. Hendle, both residents of Shokan). Death takes place of Capt. Robert C. House who resided on the west side of the Empire road, and near the Bushkill and the present Route 28. Funeral services held July 2 in the Shokan Reformed Church, were conducted by the following local clergymen: the Rev. C. W. Clowe, the Rev. John H. Eyle and the Rev. Mr. Zabriskie, Captain House, who had come here from Hyde Park, married for his second wife, Lillian Dufols, mother of the late James K. DuBois of Ashokan. His old stone house was used as a barracks for B.W.S. police during Waterworks years.

Boiceville Reulah says that when her relatives from Kingston were up there for a visit, the whole family did (well) best to make them feel at home. "We even had stewed prunes for breakfast every morning," says Reulah.

Mrs. Gabriel Richard reports that her nephew, Richard Angell, who formerly resided here, and wife became the parents of a baby boy Sunday, June 3.

Word has reached here of the death June 24 of Dr. Sarkis Abakarian, Pelham resident who until his retirement 10 years ago practiced medicine in New York city for 50 years. He was long active in Armenian circles in the metropolitan area. Miss Dagmar Abakarian and other members of the doctor's family formerly were vacation visitors to Shokan.

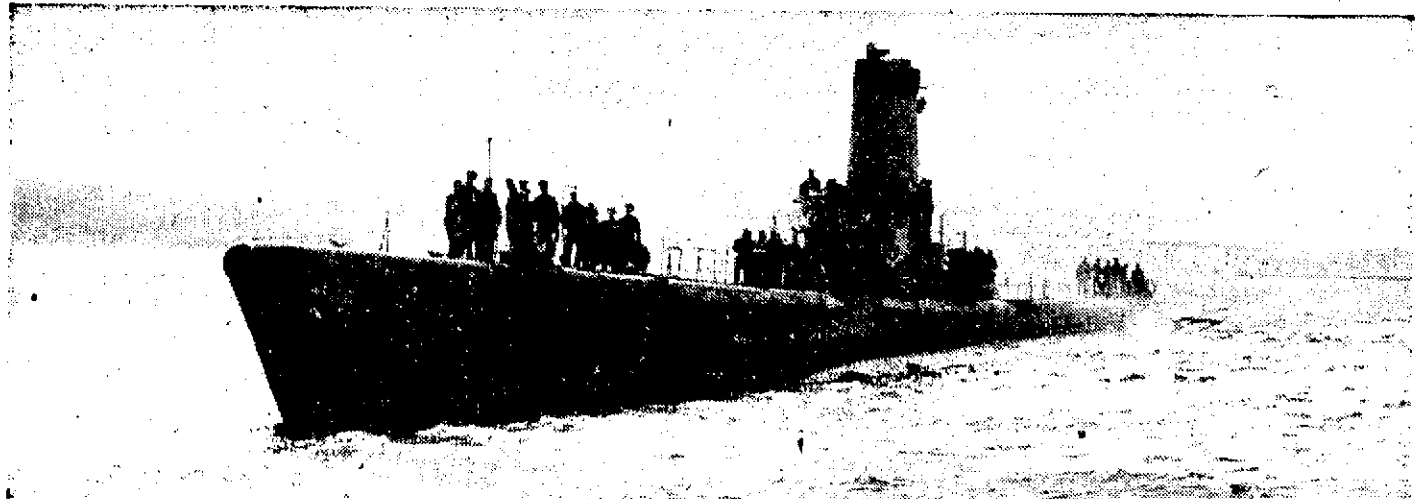

Mrs. John Bennett (Carmen Nadel) and small son, Bruce, of Kingston, spent Sunday with Mrs. Bennett's grandmother, Mrs. H. Nadel, at the family homestead in the Heights neighborhood.

Echo of Past
Denning, Olive's rugged neighbor, township on the west, was a fairly busy industrial section 70 years ago. Having but 4,800 acres of improved land out of a total area of 59,250 acres, the town could not boast of much farming activity as compared with that in some other sections of Ulster county. The possibilities in the lumbering and tanning industries were very real, however, and had been recognized as far back as 1841, when Anthony Schwab, reputedly the first settler, located at Red Hill. Denning's first tannery was built in 1849 by John W. Smith who had established a sawmill some years earlier. Later, mills were operated on the Chambers tract and by the Coddingtons, along the Rondout Creek.

There was a sawmill in the Swarthout neighborhood in the '90s, also one at the Schoenmaker place on a branch of the Rondout. A tannery at the A. Conkling, Jr., place turned out a large amount of finished work, while at Denning Postoffice (better known as Johnsonville in those days) was located the big tannery of Johnson Bros., with a capacity of 10,000 hides annually. "The Johnsons also dealt in hemlock and hardwood lumber," L. Hammond & Co., at Dewittville, had a tannery using 3,000 cords of bark and tanning 24,000 hides. Also at Dewittville, Capt. Daniel Gillette for several years operated a sawmill which he sold February, 1880, to M. M. Plumer of New York, together with some 300 acres of valuable timber. All of these activities in Denning were similar to those in force in Watson Hollow and other communities beyond "the gulf" and high mountains, in Olive and Shandaken.

Submarine Here Over Holiday

Secretary of Navy John L. Sullivan and Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet, have notified Herman E. Gottfried, commanding officer of the Kingston Naval Reserve that they have ordered the U.S.S. Irex (S.S.482), to the City of Kingston in connection with honoring Harold J. Sheehan, a seriously wounded navy veteran of World War 2, as part of the Fourth of July celebration in this city.

Harold J. Sheehan, who is a resident of this city, enlisted in the Navy in the early part of the war. While he was classified as 3-A, because he is the father of three children, he nevertheless joined the Navy and saw active combat duty at sea. During the Normandy invasion he was so severely injured that he is now a paraplegic. Mr. Sheehan is 38 years old and has been classified as totally disabled.

The U.S. Irex, which was authorized in 1943 and commissioned in 1945, is one of the largest and most modern submarines built in this country. It displaces 1,800 tons and is 320 feet long with a beam of 30 feet. It is equipped with Snorkel, which is a breathing device that enables it to remain submerged for extended periods of time. In addition, the submarine mounts two deck guns which is a new development to defend itself against any aircraft and possible surface ships.

The submarine, which will be open for public inspection here, is one of three assigned to the State of New York. Mr. Gottfried was instrumental in obtaining this vessel for the City of Kingston. The visiting hours, the place of docking and all other pertinent information about the visit of the submarine will be announced.

Cathedral School Head Lauds Boys' Choir In Speech at St. John's

The Rev. James Green, canon precentor of Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York city, and also headmaster of the cathedral choir school, spoke of the importance of choir work for the boys at the annual choir festival and chorister's reunion service in St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany avenue Sunday. The service was held in the afternoon and the former choristers joined the choir for the processional and recessional. Several awards were made to outstanding members of the present boys' choir at the church.

The Rev. Mr. Green spoke of a number of famous men who sang in Boys' choirs in their youth. In his own choir experience he set next to Nelson Eddy when both were boys.

The best choir is no good unless it has the spirit of worship he warned the boys. The rankiest excellence not with good spirit is better than the best professional choir without the spirit of worship, he said.

The Rev. Mr. Green in addition to his work at the cathedral is a Fellow in the American Guild of Organists and also a Fellow in Trinity College, London, which is the music school of the University of London.

Awards presented by the Rev. Robert T. Good Taste Today

By Emily Post
(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

DOES ANYONE DRINK COFFEE FROM SAUCER?

It is incredible that the following letter just sent me could have been meant seriously: "I have been told that you have written your approval of drinking coffee from a saucer. Could this be true?"

It is as completely untrue as it would be to claim that I consider it good manners to chew your food with your mouth open, talk with your mouth full, eat your soup noisily or take messy food in your fingers!

Consins Have Same Name

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's sister recently had a baby girl. We went to see her in the hospital and at that time no name had been chosen for the baby. As I, too, am expecting a child, I mentioned that whether it was a boy or girl, we were naming it for my husband, whose name lends itself to either sex. A few weeks later we went to see the baby and heard that she had named her little girl for my husband. What is your opinion of this? And what do you think about our still using the same name? If this is done, would it be correct?

Answer: Unless—which is not likely—she has married a man of her own surname, it could not matter. And if you have a boy named for his father, he will be "junior," of course. If you have a girl, this name given her would interfere naturally with naming a young brother "junior."

Party for Daughter

Dear Mrs. Post: How is it best to word a printed invitation to a party for my daughter? I had promised her a party at the time she graduated but I was ill. Even though it is a little late now, can some mention be made that it is in connection with her graduation from high school?

Answer: It would be very awkward as well as incorrect because it would require too long an explanation.

Appropriate Gifts for Shut-In Boy

Dear Mrs. Post: What gift would you suggest sending a teenage boy who is confined to his bed for a prolonged rest?

Answer: An assortment of magazines would give him much pleasure. Consult your stationer about those most popular with boys of his age and probable tastes.

The formal wedding procedure, whether at church or in a house, is described in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-2. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Design Tricks Improve Swim Suits

To a former Powers model with designing-ideas goes credit for the improved fit and good looks of the latest swim suit.

Carol Sonnet's designing trick lies in the A, B, C-sizing of the best bust cup, plus an inner diaphragm control band devised for bosom support. Under the nylon diaphragm band is an inset of power net which allows for a swim suit's up-and-down stretch.

Suits for both one-piece and two-piece styles incorporate these new construction ideas plus still another one designed for hip-control: a slimming, front-punctured half skirt.

Two-piece models flout the classic tradition with strapless bras, elasticized at top and bottom, to which the striped suit, right, owes its new look; with tie-on skirts, which is a style feature of the spruce green suit, left, with a halter-hung bra.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 29 (AP)—A well-mannered rally slowly gained momentum in the stock market today.

A number of issues resisted the trend but advances running to more than a point held a clear-cut majority.

The advance was managed on unusually slow turnover, with most transactions in small blocks. Some brokers suggested that yesterday's slow but severe setback may have been overdue and that traders who sold then were getting back in the market at the lower levels.

Concern over the Berlin deadlock was still widespread in the financial district. This was buttressed in part by a generally favorable interpretation of Marshal Tito's fall from grace, which many considered a potential swing in Yugoslav politics from the eastern to western political orbit. Higher prices were paid for Santa Fe, Great Northern Preferred, Atlantic Coast Line, Standard Oil (N. J.), Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Corning, Rich Tire, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting, General Electric, International Paper, and Westinghouse Electric.

Montgomery Ward, recently under pressure which has been connected with policy arguments among the company's top personnel, lost around a point. Others still lower included Caterpillar, Tractor, American Telephone Air Reunion, and Transcontinental & Western Air.

U. S. government bonds came back a bit after a starting decline.

Muller Awaits Test Against N. Y. Firemen

Warren Muller, the Colonials' ace southpaw, has a man-sized job awaiting him Wednesday night when the locals entertain the crack New York Fire Department nine at municipal stadium.

The classy sidewheeler has been impressive in two outings against the New York Cubans and the San Juan Stars but the Firemen are just as tough as either of those squads.

Lt. Henry Damm's smoke eaters hold a 10-7 edge over the New York Police in their long municipal series in the big town. The contest is played annually before 50,000 fans at the Polo Grounds.

Close Game Predicted

Manager Joe Hoffman figures the game to be one of the season's choice offerings. The Colonials have wrapped up the House of David and Jim Barton Night-hawks in their last two outings and are rolling in high gear.

Several of the Firemen have minor league backgrounds and several others could easily fit into the upper bracket of organized ball.

Perhaps the best known members are Ken Auer, pitcher and Herbie White, catcher. This is the probable Firemen battery for Wednesday.

Auer, a brother of the equally well known Roy, was a college pitching sensation at Fordham University where he won 10 straight games in his senior year. After graduation he played three seasons with Birmingham in the Eastern League. He is a right hander.

Ex-Schoolboy Star

White was a scholastic sensation in New York about a decade ago and won the World-Telegram most valuable player award. He was signed by the Yankees and spent several years with the Kansas City Blues and the New York Yankees.

He caught for the Bushwicks for part of the 1947 season and then joined the fire department.

Besides Auer and White, the Firemen have standouts in Matty Rupp, catcher-first sacker; Tom McKeirry, hard hitting second baseman; Bob Mendez, shortstop; Hank Otten, right fielder and Jim McKeough, a veteran right handed pitcher.

Lt. Damm, the team manager, was a Fireman star from 1926 to 1936 when he became manager. Prior to that he played independent baseball and six years of organized ball with Albany, Hartford and Springfield in the Eastern League.

Louis-Walcott epitaph . . . "And in the 26th round, Louis cornered his quarry. . . ." It was a long chase but the immortal Brown Bomber finally made it. . . . Boxing can't stand many more horrible exhibitions like that one. . . . The $50 ringsiders were really crying in their beer. . . . We shudder to think of what would have happened had the bout gone 15 rounds. . . . It wasn't even up to the first scrap and that, you will recall, was no ball of fire. . . . You had to feel sorry for Don Dunphy, the radio announcer. . . . We didn't hear the broadcast, of course, but if Mr. Dunphy was factual and unvarnished, it must have sounded awful. . . . The bout proved nothing new. . . . Louis was still vulnerable to a right hand punch (third round knockdown) and he can knock out any man he can catch. . . . It took him 26 rounds to catch up with Father Time Walcott. . . . Even his best friends will admit that Louis has slowed up miserably and should quit. . . . Walcott will continue to fight and probably lick the rest of the field. . . . It is a sad commentary on the heavyweight division that antiquated Gus Lesnevich may yet become the world champion as successor to Louis.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

We are gratified by the many excellent responses to our open letter to the kids of Kingston. Perhaps the best came from "Pop" Fuhrman of the Kingston Boys' Club who wrote: "The members of the Kingston Boys' Club have instructed me to tell you readers that our boys do appreciate all that has been done for them by the local ball clubs, service clubs and Recreation Department. Our boys do not put in this kind of 'recreation'. Most of the ball chasers at the stadium are members of our organization and we are proud to say that they are honest, well-behaved and cooperative respecting the property of the City and the ball clubs and are 100 per cent behind your request. "Your letter to the Kingston boys was commented on by many of our members. It was well and well placed the blame on the 'rotten apples.' Our members pledge their hearty support to your column and will help to clean out the rowdies. "If you see a youngster with 'Boys Club' printed in his shirt you can be assured that he is a 'good apple.' Otherwise he would never have that T-shirt to wear. . . ."

Of Men and Mice:

W. Floyd Smith of the Phoenix Game and Fish Assn., has come forward with a stout defense of the Esopus as a trout habitat. Mr. Smith is one of the top sportsmen and fish authorities in Ulster county. He says in part:

"It would seem that the boys are awful quick to write off the old Esopus as a trout stream this season. The past week the trout in the Esopus have made all of the sports writers and experts eat crow. "From Friday up to now there has been some of the best fly fishing here in years, trout up to 21 inches on dry flies, and not only one but plenty. Fishing reports have been out everywhere from Canada down through all the well known trout areas, but it would seem that the Esopus is the only one that gets the bumps. I wonder why?"

Just a Couple Good Days:

"Fly hatches have been late coming on, due I believe to the terrible weather. A couple of good days and, bang, you get a fly hatch, and fishing. "Take a look at some of these other famous streams, their legal sized trout nearly fished out, and then let's look at the old Esopus . . . plenty of water, wild fish and you get trout fishing. Let's not write it off the books . . . yet."

Les Brink, veteran second sacker and manager, has resigned as manager of the Saugerties American Legion.

Wallace Stars In Olympic Ring Trials in Boston

Boston, June 29 (AP)—Thirty two of the nation's best amateur boxers will continue battling for Olympic team berths in the final tryout tonight at the Boston Garden.

They are the survivors of a field of 80 selected from all parts of the country, army and navy installations all over the world and the National Collegiate A.A. membership.

Each of the battlers in last night's 45 bouts, which were dominated by the servicemen and four National A.A.U. champions, was handicapped.

The army made its eight selections from a total of 50,000 ambitious glove-wingers and the navy picked its forces after watching 17,500 in its qualifying tests.

Five army battlers survived the quarter-finals and the navy came out of the opening night's action with four.

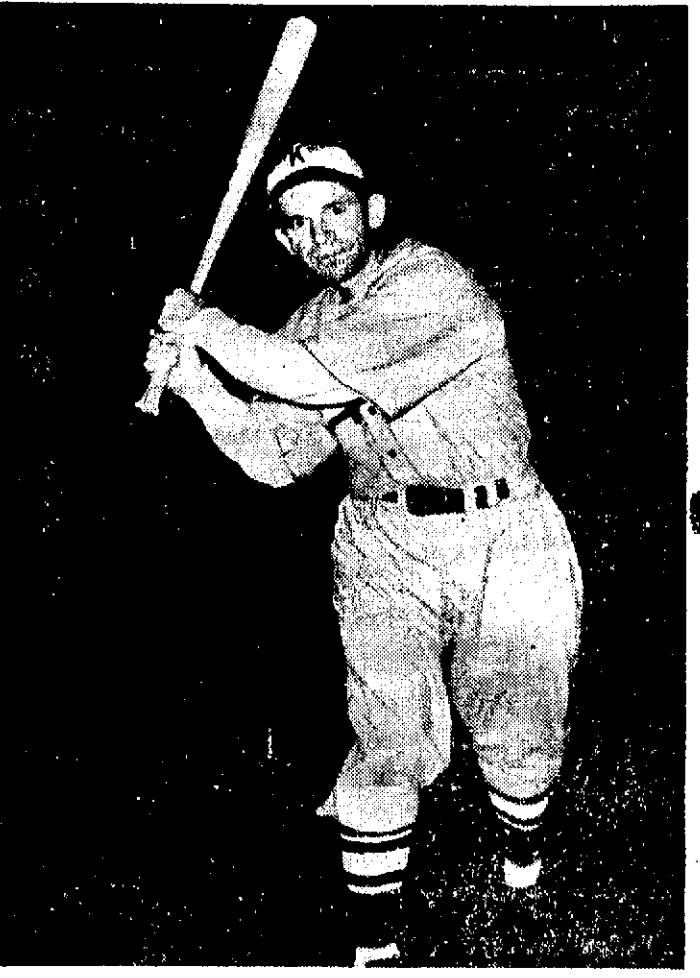

Colley Wallace, the New York heavyweight who won a national title here last April, gave two convincing demonstrations of his terrific punching power to gain the semi-finals.

He blasted out Art Sacy of the University of Miami, in one round in his initial start and then disposed of Charlie Narcus of the navy, in the second session.

But before Narcus sank for the full count, he had the satisfaction of dropping Wallace for nine-counts twice in the first round.

KPBA Offers $500 Prize List For Seventh Annual Regatta

More than $500 in cash prizes will be awarded by the Kingston Power Boat Association for its seventh annual regatta on Sunday, July 11, on the Rondout. It was revealed today by Secretary W. Vernon Radcl.

This year's race is known as the Hudson Valley championships and is a qualifying event for the New York State Championships scheduled at Saratoga early in September.

Radcl said the trophy list already spurred by the Chamber of Commerce award probably would be increased greatly in order to attract some of the East's best drivers to the Rondout.

Women's Race Planned

A special trophy is being arranged for a Class M race open only to women drivers. The spectators' reaction to the fine performance put on by Dorothy May of College Point, L. I., prompted K.P.B.A. plans for a feature restricted to the distaff side.

Midge Clarke, another top woman pilot, also was outstanding in last year's event. The women drivers proved just as capable, clever and daring as the stronger sex. Local officials are offering extra inducements in order to attract a better field.

Jack Feye, an honorary commodore of the K.P.B.A., is busy lining up a list of competent judges for the annual classic. The New York Outboard Racing Association will furnish all officials to handle the regatta.

Major League Roundup

By The Associated Press

Now is the time for all pennant-conscious managers to give a note of thanks to those athletes who hold the most thankless job in baseball—the relief hurlers.

Never before have the Majors boasted so many fine relief pitchers. As a matter of fact, Cleveland, Philadelphia and New York owe their lofty positions in the American League to the splendid work done by that game-saving crew. The same holds true of all the first division clubs in the National.

Last year, both Bucky Harris and Earl Shotton, respectively managers of the Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, were quick to admit that they never would have won the flag without their relief men, Joe Page and Hugh Casey.

Page Still Tops

This year, numerous pitchers have come up to challenge Page and Casey for the No. 1 rating. Casey has been temporarily sidelined due to an injury, but Page is still carrying on in flawless style. In Casey's place have loomed such relief luminaries as Ted Wilks of the St. Louis Cardinals, Ray Shotton, Boston Braves; Russ Christopher and Ed Killeman, Cleveland Indians; Charley Harris and Bob Savage, Philadelphia Athletics; Sheldon Jones, New York Giants; Harry Gumbert, Cincinnati Reds; and Kirby Higbe, Pittsburgh Pirates.

Fourteen relievers giving a good account of themselves this season include: A. Heusser, Philadelphia Phillies; William Ramsdell, Dodgers; Jess Doherty, Chicago Cubs; Earl Johnson, Boston Red Sox; Hal White, Detroit Tigers; Frank Egan, St. Louis Browns; Tom Ferrick, Washington Senators.

Junior Baseball Starts July 6

Playground coaching assignments for four young collegians who will supervise the $1,500 Kingston Athletic Association junior baseball program were announced today by Clarence S. Rowland, chairman of the K.A.A.'s junior baseball committee.

The coaches and fields are:

Athletic Field—Bob Gill of Kingston.
Municipal Stadium—John Baker of Saugerties, assistant to Coach Larry Cahill.
Block Park—Bob Petrillo, Mt. Vernon, N.Y.
Hasbrouck Park—Tom Mahar, Kenosha, N.Y.

The baseball project which is expected to attract virtually all of the youngsters in Kingston and surrounding territory will get underway at 10 a. m. on Tuesday, July 6.

Murphy Assists
Superintendent of Recreation Andrew Murphy, III, and Harry L. Edson of the Department of Recreation will assist in the program.

Playground hours for baseball instructions and league play have been set for 10 a. m. to 12 noon and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday. Additional periods will be used, if necessary.

All boys of school age up to 19 years who are regularly enrolled at the city parks are eligible to enter. Boys from the outside districts are invited to sign with the park nearest their home.

Robinson Beats Bernie Docusen To Retain Title

Chicago, June 29 (AP)—Ray "Sugar" Robinson's 15-round decision over young Bernie Docusen to retain his welterweight crown is the story of a steak.

The machine-like Harlem slugger starved himself for two days to make the 147 pound weight limit. Then after tipping the scales at 146½ in yesterday's weigh-in, he drank a quart of beef broth and gnawed through a two-pound broiled steak. This was his first solid food in 48 hours of forced dehydration to shed four or five pounds.

That hunk of beef did it. During most of last night's title defense in Cominsky Park against the 21-year-old New Orleans challenger six years his junior—Robinson was a blur of power and precision. He had to be to beat the "Dook," a dead-pan, polished little Filipino who made the champion go the route. The decision was unanimous. Docusen weighed 145½.

Disbrow Brothers Seek Repeat at Rhinebeck Track

Bob and Stan Disbrow, a pair of Dutchess county midget motor drivers who are rapidly gaining top rating will be in the field for the 50-lap main event tonight at the Rhinebeck Speedway.

Last Tuesday Stan pushed his 95-Ford to first place in the feature event and in doing so topped a field of highly touted Offenhausers. Brother Bob finished right behind for a one-two finish.

Bob Disbrow will pilot a brand new Offenhauser that broke all existing time trial records on a Philadelphia track last week.

In addition to the crack field of cars expected tonight, there will be a special feature. Bill Scott, one of the pilots at the Arlington Airport will do some stunt flying before the races.

Bill Kohler and Johnny Ford who tangled last Tuesday and turned over several times only to get up and walk away will be back again.

The stunt flying will precede the first heat which is scheduled for 8:30 p. m.

Huskies Favored In Olympic Trials

Princeton, N. J., June 29 (AP)—Teh eyes of eight college and two club coaches were on the University of Washington today as the favored Huskies concluded practice for the Olympic eight-oared rowing trials.

The Washington sweepstrikers, under the watchful eye of Coach Al Ulbrickson, will be the team to beat in the trials which get under way tomorrow over Lake Carnegie's 2,000-meter Olympic course.

The Huskies will seek to repeat their 1936 feat of winning the Poughkeepsie Regatta and the Olympic tryouts, after which they swept aside all foreign opposition.

In addition to Washington oarsmen in the trials will be California, Wisconsin, Princeton, Cornell, Michigan, Navy, Harvard and Yale. The Wyandotte, Mich., rowing club and the West Side rowing club of Buffalo, N. Y., also are listed as starters.

Harmon Quits Grid For Radio Position

Los Angeles, June 29 (AP)—Tom Harmon, the famous number 99 of Michigan backfields, has stored his football cleats in the locker

LOUIS CHECKS OUT OF BOXING

Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, who announced his retirement from the ring after knocking out Jersey Joe Walcott, hands Mike Jacobs a pair of boxing gloves in New York City to signify the end of his fist career. The check in the Brown Bomber's right hand is blank. Louis has not yet received payment for successfully defending his title.

Williams and Musial Still Baseball's Best 1-2 Punch

Chicago, June 29 (AP)—Ted Williams, boosting his batting mark to .415, is setting one of the hottest paces at the plate in 26 years.

The Boston slugger, bashing nine hits in 20 trips last week, upped his clip four percentage points for a 52-point lead over second place Lou Boudreau in the American League hit column.

The immortal sister wound up the 1922 season with 420, duplicating Ty Cobb's record in 1911. No American Leaguer since that pair ever finished a race being set by Williams. The Beantown batter himself came close when he notched 406 in 1941.

In the National League, Rogers Hornsby's 424 pace in 1924 is the best since 1900.

Cleveland's Boudreau has collected 82 blows in 226 tries for .363. New York's Johnny Lindell was third with 331.

Berra Tops Catchers

Chicago, June 29 (AP)—Larry (Yogi) Berra of New York, regained first place among American League catchers in the All Star Baseball Poll today as balloting continued throughout the nation to select starting lineups for the 15th annual All Star game in St. Louis July 13.

Berra, with 399,114 votes, passed Birdie Tebbets of the Boston Red Sox, who has been named on 394,257 of the 1,672,697 ballots tabulated at All Star voting headquarters here. The voting, which is being conducted by 452 newspapers, magazines and radio stations, will close at midnight July 6.

In the National League race for the starting catcher's berth, another New Yorker, Walker Cooper of the Giants, took the lead. He has 543,274. He was followed by Joe Dimaggio, New York Yankees 543,532; Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals, 536,084; and Lou Boudreau, Cleveland Indians, 522,803.

Softball Scores

Newcombe Oil and Scranton Lacs defied the elements to play a City Softball League game yesterday and Harold "Chicken" Smith of Newcombes showed more power than the lightning.

All that Smith did to accomplish Newcombe's slash 20-0 victory was to pitch five-hit ball and smash a pair of home runs to deep center.

His first blow accounted for two runs in the third and the second came in the sixth. Fink McElrath poked two triples and a double; Frank Roe hit a homer and two singles; and Babe Higgins and Bud Korman each had a hit for the winners. Also included in the 24 Newcombe safeties were a triple and two singles by Doc Titus, of K.H.S. football fame.

Bud Leininger and Jack Forman each salvaged a single and double of the live hits yielded by Smith.

The score:
Newcombe Oil 508 103 2 — 20 24 2
Scranton Lacs 000 000 0 — 0 5 4
H. Smith and P. Titus; J. Howard, C. Siskies and W. Siskies.

of memory in favor of a full time radio job.

Announcing his retirement from football and the Los Angeles professional Rams, Harmon said he will take over July 15 as sports director of Station KFI, Los Angeles. His job will include television broadcasts of Rams home games.

Allied traffic into Berlin moves across the Elbe River on a primitive motorless ferry using only the river current for power. This method of crossing became necessary when the Soviets closed the Berlin-Helmstedt autobahn bridge for "extensive repairs," as part of an overall Red squeeze-play against Western Allies in Berlin. Board Approves School Budget

Common Council Will Get Document; Tax Rate Set at $20.68

Final approval of the 1948-49 school budget was given Monday evening by the Board of Education and the budget will now go to the Common Council for approval or disapproval as that body may see fit. The budget as presented calls for a $20.68 per thousand tax rate, $1.76 less than the previous tax rate.

Should the Common Council approve the budget as presented it will become the budget upon which the tax levy will be made. Should the Common Council disapprove of the budget, as has been done in the past, it will be returned to the Board of Education with recommendations which may be approved by the Board of Education or the board may vote the present budget by a 2/3 vote and it then becomes the official budget.

The proposed budget calls for raising $512,968.71 by general city tax levy. The budget totals $1,399,718.94 against which estimated revenues of $885,750.23 are credited, giving a net of $513,968.71 to be raised by direct taxes.

A resolution transmitting the budget to the Common Council for its action was offered by the Mt. Pocono, Pa., June 29 (AP)—Investigations designed to establish relationships between forest cover and water conservation will be undertaken by the newly dedicated Delaware-Lehigh experimental forest center. The center was dedicated last night by delegates attending the annual meeting of the Interstate Commission on the Delaware river basin. Tree planting experiments will be started on a 50-acre area on the Dilltown watershed fronting State Highway 115.
